

LATROBE CITY COUNCIL ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER PROTOCOL FACT SHEET

What is the Victorian Traditional Owner Settlement Act?

The Traditional Owner Settlement Act 2010 is a Victorian law which provides for an out-of-court settlement of native title and resolution of land justice.

The Act allows the Victorian Government to make agreements with Traditional Owners to recognise their relationship to the land, and provide for certain rights on Crown land and other benefits.

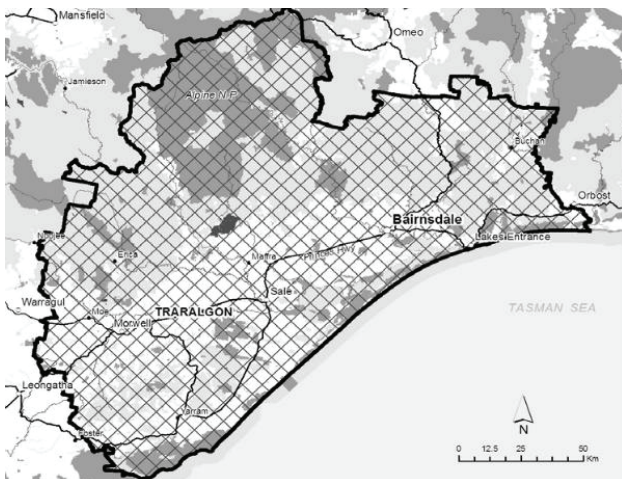

Who are the Traditional Owners of Latrobe City?

The Traditional Owners of Latrobe City are the Gunaikurnai nation. The Gunaikurnai nation is made up of five clans, the Brabralung, Brataualung, Brayakaulung, Krauatungalung and Tatungalung people.

The Gunaikurnai agreement area extends from west Gippsland near Warragul, east near Orbost to the Snowy River, north to Mount Buller and south to Port Welshpool. It also includes 200 metres of sea country offshore in East Gippsland.

The Gunaikurnai nation is represented by Gunaikurnai Land and Waters Aboriginal Corporation (GLaWAC).

What is an Acknowledgement of Country?

An Acknowledgement of Country recognises that Victoria has a strong and proud Aboriginal history and complex ownership and land stewardship systems stretching back many thousands of years. It pays respect to the Traditional Owners.

When is an Acknowledgement of Country appropriate?

An Acknowledgement of Country should be read aloud at formal events, forums, functions, meetings, conferences, school assemblies, concerts and official openings.

Who should give the Acknowledgement of Country?

The first speaker at an event or function (following the welcome or in the absence of a welcome) should read aloud the Acknowledgment of Country. The speaker does not need to be an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person. Any person can read the acknowledgement.

Subsequent speakers may also give an Acknowledgement of Country, but are not required to.

What form should the Acknowledgement of Country take?

Latrobe City lies in the traditional land of the Brayakaulung clan of the Gunaikurnai nation so the acknowledgement should read as follows:

I would like to acknowledge that we are meeting here today on the traditional land of the Brayakaulung (bry ak ah lung) people of the Gunaikurnai (gun eye kurn eye) nation and pay respect to their Elders past and present.

I would also like to acknowledge other Elders present with us today.

What is a Welcome to Country

Welcome to Country allows traditional owners the opportunity to formally welcome people to their land. This is done as a ceremony or an oral welcome, by an Elder or appropriate nominated person. It may involve ceremonies of dance, smoke and song to bless the event and welcome participants.

When is a Welcome to Country appropriate?

It is suggested that a welcoming ceremony be arranged for major public forums and functions. Naturally, if the function has a broad impact on, or significance for, Aboriginal people a welcoming ceremony will be appropriate.

Can any Aboriginal person perform a Welcome to Country?

No, a Welcome to Country should only be performed by a representative of the Traditional Owner group. Asking an Aboriginal person to perform a Welcome to Country when they do not belong to the Traditional Owner group may cause them embarrassment and may offend the Traditional Owners.

In Latrobe City, only a representative of the Gunaikurnai nation can perform a Welcome to Country.
